

Paul Quintanilla

Portrayed as an infant, on his mother's arms and wearing a small hat on his head

Born in Manhattan in 1940, Paul Quintanilla was raised in New York City by his parents, Luis and Janet Quintanilla. Luis Quintanilla began his residency at UKC when Paul was about 9 months old. As a child, he witnessed his father's hard work and long days painting. Throughout his childhood, Paul met many of his father's renowned friends including Dorothy Parker, John Dos Passos, Arthur Miller, Ernest Hemingway, and Richard Wright.

After attending college, Paul became an author and worked for many years as a librarian at the San Francisco Public Library. He published several books including Hemingway's Beard, Something Meaningful, and Waiting at the Shore.

Through his writings and his website, Paul has been committed to preserving the works and legacy of his father, Luis Quintanilla.

Source: Paul Quintanilla, Waiting at the Shore.